SUGGESTS A CHANGE IN COLLEGE COURSE

Graduate of the University Suggests That College Be Open the Year Through.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 24.—That the University of Wisconsin should be open at least eleven months of the year and that students should be encouraged to finish their course in three years is the argument of Max Loeb, U. W. '05, of Chicago, who has just attended the reunion of his class here. Mr. Loeb won the Northern Oratorical contest for Wisconsin in 1904 and gained wide prominence. He was general secretary of the Alumni association for two years.

"What building, public or private," said Mr. Loeb in an interview, "is allowed to remain idle two months of the year, yes, one month in the year? Yet here in Madison the university buildings, representing an investment of ten millions of dollars, remain idle, either in whole or in part, for at least three months in the year—and that is not forgetting the summer school either. We hear a great deal about university professors being underpaid and overworked. They may be underpaid—they undoubtedly are—but they are certainly not overworked. How many men in other vocations get a vacation of three months or more every year, with leave of absence every six or seven years? I submit that a man who is practicing law, or medicine, or engineering, or is engaged in business of any kind, makes just as strenuous mental effort as does the professor or instructor who goes through the same teaching process day after day with little or no vacation." Mr. Loeb's interest is well understood.

"Why should not the student be encouraged to finish his university course in three years? Four years is a great big chunk out of a young man's life, and the college years are very important ones. In these formative years should a young man get the habit of having four months vacation every year? Is this the proper training for one who is soon to enter the competitive struggle where a vacation of three weeks is a highly prized luxury? Boys and girls at high school are children, requiring long vacation periods, perhaps, for their physical and mental needs. But the young man at college is certainly not a child. Work is fun—if you are interested in the work. I frankly believe the average college student has a larger medium of life hours than his due. He ought to be encouraged in and not discouraged from finishing his college course in three years."

Mr. Loeb himself finished his university course in three years.

PLAN DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

Chairman Davies Advocates the Nomination of Two Candidates for Every Office.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, June 24.—Joseph E. Davies of Madison, state democratic chairman, came to Milwaukee today to look over the plans for the state convention on July 12 and in an interview he urged that the convention nominate two candidates for every state office. This he believes necessary if the democratic party is to cast the twenty per cent of its normal vote in the September primaries, and if the primaries are not well attended, the party cannot have a party designation on the full election ballot. The convention, he says, gives indications of being largely attended. He says the democrats, however, must take some steps to keep democrats from voting in the republican primaries, if the party is to retain its identity.

Contemplation as well as action. Good company, lively conversations, and the endowments of friendship, fill the mind with great pleasure; a temporary solitude, on the other hand, is itself agreeable. This may perhaps prove that we are creatures designed for contemplation as well as action.—Burke.

FACTS DO NOT BEAR OUT THE COMPLAINT

Report That Petition Was Being Circulated to Prefer Charges Against Appleby Causes Investigation.

It was currently reported yesterday that Rev. Laughlin and L. K. Crissey were circulating a petition asking that a complaint be filed against Chief of Police Appleby for negligence in office. In the investigation that followed it was learned that the complaint was based upon information furnished by the city attorney who had turned the matter over to these gentlemen to handle. Further investigation brought to light the facts that the specific case referred to was not any negligence on the part of the chief, but had been handled directly by Mayor Carl as the most expedient method of handling an unpleasant bit of police matters. Doubtless when the facts in the matter are made clear to the gentlemen behind the movement the present move to oust the chief will be dropped.

The Future Sport

By WALT MASON

The airship is a thing achieved; it has its rightful place, as well as any autocrat that ever ran a race. The farmer, in the coming years, when eggs to town he brings, will flap along above the trees, upon his rusty wings. The doctor, when he has a call, from patients far or near, will quickly strap his pinions on, and hit the atmosphere. And airship racing then will be the sport to please the crowds; there'll be racecourses overhead, and grandstands in the clouds. The umpire, on his patent wings, will hover here and there; the fans, with rented parachutes, will prance along the air; the joyous shrieks of flying sports will keep the welkin hot, and soaring cops will blithely chase the scorching aeronaut. We'll soon be living overhead, our families and all; and then we'll only need the earth to land on when we fall.

ANNUAL MEETING OF T. A. & B. SOCIETY

William Flarity Was Elected President at Election and Date of Annual Picnic Is Set.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, June 24.—The T. A. and B. society held their annual meeting and set the date for their annual picnic and races for Wednesday, August 10. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: William Flarity, president; G. W. Nichols, vice-president; Harry Morrison, recording secretary; Carlton McCarthy, financial secretary; D. L. Devine, treasurer; Phil. Voth, marshal. Chairman were also appointed to proceed at once in making arrangements for the picnic. The T. A. and B. is the oldest and strongest temperance society in southern Wisconsin and their annual picnics and races are becoming more popular from year to year and the attendance generally is from 10,000 to 15,000 people.

Mr. and Mrs. Westman Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Holton and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Ellington entertained their friends at a dancing and card party last evening in Academy hall. The Strickler and McIntosh orchestra furnished the inspiration.

T. B. Barle yesterday purchased a five-passenger Overland auto.

A NEW SEESAW

Can Be Adjusted for Use by Children of Unequal Weight.

One of the most popular forms of amusement among small children is the seesaw, but up to the present time this exercise could only be indulged in by children of equal weight. A Virginia man, however, has invented a seesaw that can be used by an adult and a child and can be adjusted to make their weights equalize each other. An upright post rises from a firm base. Fixed to swing on this post are horizontal bars with seats on their outer ends and handles by which the user may hold on. The horizontal bars are made in two parts, slightly mounted so that one side of the seesaw can be made different lengths, thus adding to the weight of the person who sits on the long end. The whole structure is strongly built and works easily and there is no danger of a breaking board or of children losing their balance on it as they have resists for their feet when in the air and a handle to grasp. Such a device will be found a popular one for private or public playgrounds.

ALONE, ALL ALONE.

Mrs. Proudman—I tell my daughter that her voice is a gold mine!
Professor Schneickelritz (going)—Ach, zah, vat you call an abandoned mine, ahnd't it?

German Acuteness.

The egg cups imported into India at one time all came from Great Britain. The Indian eggs are, however, very small, and the egg cups did not fit. A German traveler noticed this small item and got his firm to make smaller egg cups and export them there. All the trade is now in German hands.

One of Two Ways.

His divorced wife dying, her ex-husband wedded her. Immediately she gets well. Either that woman loves the man to death and wants to live for him or she's just made up her mind to get well now that she's got him again and hand the cues some of the discipline he escaped by divorcing her.

Real Happiness.

Ex-President Eliot of Harvard once said that all that was necessary to happiness was good health, a clear conscience and a capacity for appreciation.

Cat Mother's Duckling.

At an Oxfordshire (Eng.) village inn a duckling was the solitary result of a setting of eggs, and, careless of its fate, the owner gave it to the cat, who was suckling a kitten. The cat at once took to the little stranger, and now washes and nurses it with the same care as she devotes to her own offspring.

Rather a Hard Dig.

One of the candidates for admission to the Primitive Methodist ministry in New Zealand this year is a young man who usually appears in public in Highland costume. And, according to a Maori paper, when his application came before the conference it was accepted, "on condition that he assumes civilized dress!"

A Larger Family.

"Do you find the cost of living any higher than it was, say, five years ago?" "Yes, sir. Two of my daughters have got married since."

MANY LIKE HIM.

"What kind of a fellow is he?"
"The kind that wears good clothes only on Sunday."

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.
The democratic state convention in Ohio, not only endorsed Governor Harmon by re-nomination, but also placed him at the front as their candidate for the presidency in 1912.
Ohio is the first state to cut loose from Bryan and Bryanism and it is a hopeful sign.
The democratic party has been so hopelessly demoralized for a dozen years or more that it has not been recognized as a competitor, and as a result the republican party has flirted with all sorts of issues until threatened today with disruption because of internal strife.
The nation has always been at its best, so far as government is concerned, when these two great parties have been evenly divided and when democracy shakes off the incubus which has so long fettered the party, and gathers its scattered forces under the old banner, the republican party will come to its senses and recognize a foe worthy of its steel.
The negotiation which is leading the disaffected element in the republican party, has much to say about the independent voter. They pose as progressives and national reformers, and attempt to ride two horses by being republicans at home and democrats in Washington.

This dual performance appeals to Bryan and his followers, who are ready to hitch up with them on any and every occasion.
The old line democrats are now organizing throughout the country, as they have in Ohio, with the hope of haling up the drifters from their ranks, and winning legitimate victory.
This is a laudable ambition and the republican party can afford to encourage it because, if successful, it means the end of political anarchy, for the line of demarcation between the two parties will be so distinct that the independent voter will weary of his orphanage and return to the fold.
The average voter is not a politician. He is so densely ignorant of candidates who aspire for office, outside of his home locality, that independence of action is a dangerous proposition.
This fact is painfully apparent. Just now, when nomination papers for state officers are being circulated throughout the state.
The candidates may all be good men,
but many of them are so little known, away from home, that the support requested is blind support.
These conditions prevail because parties are disrupted and so badly demoralized that political intelligence for the masses is out of the question.

The democratic party will come into its own by shaking Bryan and Bryanism, and the republican party will come to its senses by returning to the old principles of loyalty.
There will be no middle ground in the final contest. The country has no need for a third party and the independent voter, if he cares to be a factor in government, will return to the ranks.

THE OTHER FOOT.
When President Taft called the railroads to time, the other day, by threatened injunction proceedings if freight rates were advanced, the great mass of people, not interested in railroads, applauded.

Now the shoe is on the other foot, for yesterday, through the influence of the President, organized labor was given to understand that class legislation would not be tolerated. There will be some applause, but it will not be so vociferous.

An effort had been made to amend the sundry civil service bill so that organized labor would be exempt from the operations of the Sherman antitrust law, and the house was ready to adopt the amendment when the President interposed, and by a close marginal vote succeeded in defeating the obnoxious clause.

Just before the vote was taken a protest was filed by the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, now in session at St. Paul, represented by senators. The President replied by quoting their protest and saying:
"I presume you refer to the proposition now before congress that money appropriated for the fiscal year 1911 for enforcement of anti-trust laws and acts to regulate commerce shall not part of it be expended in the prosecution of conspiracies in the nature of boycotts to increase wages, shorten hours, or better the condition of labor."

"The supreme court has decided that such a boycott is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and this proposition is an attempt to withhold the means of prosecuting that law when it is violated by a particular class, thus to be made privileged. I am opposed to such class legislation.
If it were proposed to amend the language of the Sherman antitrust law itself so as to narrow its scope, that would present a proper question for consideration, but so long as the present anti-trust law remains upon the statute books an attempt to modify its enforcement so as to render immune any particular class of citizens, rich or poor, employers or employees, is improper legislation and in my judgment ought to be opposed by your brotherhood."

"The laboring man and the trades unions, if I understand him, asks only equality before the law. Class legislation and unequal privileges, though expressly in his favor, will in the end work no benefit to him or to society."

Then the President took off his coat and went to work. He spent the entire day and bent every energy toward the defeat of the amendment.
He threw his whole influence into the fight, sending for several dozen representatives and urging them to repeal the provision. Mr. Taft declared that if it cost him the support of every laboring man in the country he would not approve such a provision of law.
The laboring man, he believed, asked only equality before the law and was entitled to no more.

This man, the man who has the moral courage to stand for justice and right, whether dealing with railway magnates or labor leaders, is William H. Taft, the president of all the people, and yet the muck-raker calls him weak, and attempts to belittle his administration. The people are coming to appreciate their president and this appreciation will grow as time advances.

EASY MONEY.
The life of the country editor may not be all sunshine, but occasionally a ray breaks through the clouds and lights up the landscape, as will be noted by the following experience related by the Kansas City Star.
"A certain Missouri editor is ready to take a flier in high finance. He got his schooling by threatening to publish the name of the young man seen with his sweetheart's hand on his shoulder if he didn't come across with a dollar on subscription. Fifty-seven young fellows slipped in and paid a dollar. The editor says he has letters from several others informing him they will hand him a dollar the next time they are in town."

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A PICTURE.
As a rule, we should prefer to hang up only beautiful pictures for the public gaze.

But even the hideous picture—if it is true—may have its uses. Here is one:
A wealthy citizen of New York was siding another wealthy citizen for alienating the affections of the former's wife. The wife was put on the witness stand.

This is part of her testimony:
"Describing some of the lively times with 'gentlemen' friends, she told of one luncheon at a cafe: 'I took the silver sugar bowl, and the gentleman gave me two knives and forks and two spoons. I hid them under my cloak.'" Continuing, she said, "One of the men tried to take the brass lamp, but it was fastened," whereat the woman smiled and said, "I always took things for my friends wherever we ate." She also remarked significantly:
"We all had more than the usual amount of champagne."

Questioned concerning her life with her husband, the woman testified:
"My husband made me drink. He always got drunk at dinner. We used to make him comfortable on two chairs. He was cruel to me and called me a who devil."

And this:
"I associated with a low woman.
I used to joke him about her and his taste."
Asked concerning her divorce proceedings, she admitted she had gone to Dakota, where she and a "gentleman" acquaintance lived at a hotel as brother and sister.

This is not a page from Balzac.
It is the printed testimony in a court of record in New York.
You don't like it?
Well, it is rather "impressionistic," as one might say. But it is true. And it is typical. In an adjoining column of the same newspaper is another revelation of "high life" almost as nauseous.

This Hogarthian but realistic picture of vice in velvet is a fit companion piece to the crude wickedness of the slums.
To fitly characterize the picture in words is impossible.
How shall we label it?
Suppose we put under it the familiar words:
It fares the land, to hastening like a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men (and women) decay.

PRUNING GARDEN SHRUBS.
How the Process Must Be Accomplished to Get Best Results.
As ornamental trees and shrubs are pruned to add to the production of flowers and foliage, the flowering season necessarily controls the time of pruning.
Many of the early blooming shrubs develop their flowers the year before, and with these heavy pruning should be delayed until just after their flowering season. Deutzia, spirea, forsy-thia and many other popular shrubs are of this character. Soon after their flowering season is over they begin to develop buds for the next year.
Shrubs, needing heavy pruning, should be pruned in early winter. This will result in larger blooms on the remaining buds. Such plants as the hydrangea and the clematis, which make their flowering buds on shoots grown the same year, should be pruned heavily while dormant, as this will give a greater profusion of shoots on which to develop new buds.

When pruning hardy deciduous flowering shrubs all dead wood should be cut out, straggling branches either shortened or removed, and all suckers arising from the roots should be destroyed. Where shrubs are planted in clumps, branches that interfere with other branches should be cut out. It is a good idea to cover the wounds with white lead or grafting wax, as if a stub is left uncovered the healing of the wound will be left until the stub is rooted out and the rotting stub will be a lodging place for bacteria and fungus. Cut the branch off clean and close to the main stem, avoiding any stubs, and cover the wound with grafting wax melted and applied hot.

How to Water Window Boxes.
The watering of plants in a window box is of the first importance. With poor loam and correct watering it is possible to keep plants in a flourishing condition for days. With the best of loam and insufficient watering the chances of keeping the plants alive are poor. It isn't sufficient to sprinkle lightly every morning. The water should be poured on several times a day. Don't be stingy with the water.
Pour it on the thirsty plants. It is best to soak thoroughly the boxes at night and early in the morning before the sun is high. About the middle of the summer as much loam as possible should be dug from the top of the box without disturbing the roots and be replaced with new, rich leaf mold or decayed soil. In addition, give frequent waterings with manure water.
Plants must have nourishment. If supplied with new loam and the liquid manure the window boxes will be a delight.

He Was Sorry He Spoke.
It was at a suburban dinner party.
The head of the house held up a rib of pork and observed, humorously:
"Here, ladies, is what I've made of." "Yes," responded one of the guests, "and from about the same kind of a critter."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Clung to Their Tin Cups.
In the middle ages drinking glasses and cups were rare and they were generally mounted upon a foot or stem of gold or silver, enriched with precious stones. Not until the fifteenth century, when Venice began to send her wares abroad, did the use of glasses become quite general, and even then, in ordinary life, the people clung to their "tin cups," which were often of beautiful design and workmanship.

Who Has 'Em?
"I understand you have a fine track team here," said the visitor to the man who was showing him over the college campus. "What individual holds most of the medals?" "The town pawbroker," answered the guide after due deliberation.—Buffalo Express.

In Praise of Labor.
By labor the earth has been subdued, and man redeemed from barbarism; nor has a single step in civilization been made without it. Labor is not only a necessity and a duty, but a blessing.—Emiles.

A Sure One.
"Do you believe in modern miracles?" "Sure I do. Here's an account of a woman complaining of the torture inflicted on her by her husband's obstinate and complete silence—wants a divorce because he lets her do all the talking."

Imprecational Advice.
"An artist," said Mr. Teetehum, "should strive to reproduce what is nearest to his thought and deepest in his affection." "Yes," replied the mercenary genius, "but the laws against counterfeiting currency are so sovere."

Passive Virtue Not Enough.
Beware of making your moral staple consist of the negative virtues. It is good to abstain from all that is hurtful and sinful. But to make a business of it leads to emaciation of character, unless one feels largely also on the more nutritious diet of active sympathy and benevolence.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Advertising As Help In General Economy

That a man who advertises his business properly is not only a distributor, but also helps the public generally to economize, was the statement made yesterday by Arthur Brisbane of New York in an address before the Chicago Advertising Association.

This is certainly true in my case, for I know that I have saved my patients in the aggregate many thousands of dollars compared to what their dental work would have cost them if they had gone elsewhere.

And then, also, think of the pain I am daily saving people.

It pays in many ways to let me do your dental work.

NEWBOUER'S VICTIM LIKELY TO RECOVER

No Evidence of Infection in the Case of Henry Saum Who Was Spearheaded With A Pitchfork.
It is now thought that Henry Saum who was stabbed with a pitchfork in the hands of John Newbauer Wednesday afternoon will suffer no lasting ill effects. Dr. E. P. Woods, the attending physician, states that as late as this morning there were no evidences of infection and that prospects are bright for complete recovery. The three pronged javelin which was brought to the police station yesterday and was crusted with rust and filth and only the copious flow of blood from the wound could have saved the man, it would seem, from dire consequences. Saum, of course, is not yet out of danger. The time entered the body between the fifth and sixth ribs and penetrated the lung.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Teddy Bear's See-Saw

ALL the long, golden June afternoon Davy and Dorfy had been playing see-saw out in the yard, and it was no wonder they were so tired that the Ticklemouse had slow work tickling them awake.

"Seems to me," said the Mouse to Willy, "it's about time we let the twins choose what we shall do tonight, eh?" Willy nodded. "Well," said Dorfy, smiling, "I'd like to have you tickle Teddy alive again; maybe he knows something that would be a lot of fun."

"No sooner said than done," laughed Willy, bringing Dorfy's Teddy bear from the toy pile in the corner and setting him down on the rug. "Now, Uncle Tick, you tickle him alive, while I wish that he'd tell us what he'd like to play tonight. Now—one, two, three—tickle!" and he stood on one leg, shut one eye, and wished with all his might.

Teddy slowly rolled over and stretched sleepily, then sat up and rubbed his eyes with both furry paws. Suddenly his mouth flew open, as if the Mouse had tickled a spring. "Let's see-saw!" he roared, suddenly jumping to his feet and making for the window. And the merry mice and the happy twins happily hopped after him to the "teeter," as the mice called it.

Teddy bear jumped to the middle of the long plank and Davy climbed on to one end, with Willy beside him. The Ticklemouse and Dorfy crawled out to the other end, and the plank slowly came to balance. All ready—tickle it! "Jarger!" called Teddy, and the plank stretched till it was many times as long as it had been all day.

"This is 'most like flying!" Dorfy cried, her curls streaming up behind her as she and the Ticklemouse came to the ground and started upward again.

"Listen," whispered the Mouse, "hear the bull tolling the bell? And see—there's the sparrow with his bow and arrow, and the fish with his little dish to catch the blood, the owl with his spade and trowel, the beetle with his thread and needle—all following after the lark! Do you know what they're doing, Dorfy?"

"Why, of course—now I do!" said Dorfy. "It's Cock Robin's funeral! But I didn't know all those folks were real."

"Real? They're the real things in the world—a lot more real than every-day things! But we must go down now and let Davy have a look."

The Twins were seated half out of their wits, a half hour later, to hear the Ticklemouse—who was up in the air just then—give a startled squeal. "Quick, quick! Let us down!"

The moment the see-saw touched the ground he was off for the nursery, never stopping till all were safely inside.

"What did you see, Uncle Tick?" asked Willy, breathing hard.

"Cats o' Dawn," answered his uncle, looking a bit ashamed of his scare, "and they looked awfully near—from the teeter, you know. They were racing along in the path of the rising sun, and they looked so fierce I forgot for a moment that they were away over the edge of the world!"

"Now, hold her up there," Teddy shouted, leaning toward Davy's end of the see-saw. High in air on the magic teeter, Dorfy and the Ticklemouse gazed around them.

"Magic? It certainly was. For they could see clear over the edge of the big, round, world into fairyland. Or was it Goosehill?

Far away, over the edge of a grassy hill, came a strange procession. "Listen," whispered the Mouse, "hear the bull tolling the bell? And see—there's the sparrow with his bow and arrow, and the fish with his little dish to catch the blood, the owl with his spade and trowel, the beetle with his thread and needle—all following after the lark! Do you know what they're doing, Dorfy?"

They give the insider plenty of outlook, but the outsider gets no inlook. They really add another room to your house, as secluded and private as any and unapproached for healthful enjoyment, at a cost so low that it will surprise you.

The way Vudor Porch Shades are made, accounts for their great superiority. The slats are of tough, straight-grained wood, stained (not painted) in pleasing colors. And the warp is of seine twine, such as is used for fishing nets. They have heavy strips top and bottom, and are supplied with the best possible fixtures. They last for years and do not frazzle out at the ends, nor warp out of shape, as do the cheap bamboo screens.

Anyone who has a screw-driver can quickly put them up. They are easily raised or lowered and may be fastened at any desired height.

The shades are all made 7 & 8 ft. long. Prices vary according to the widths:

SEATTLE LOSING NOTED HUMP

Forty-Three Square City Blocks Being Washed Down by High Pressure Water Jets.

Seattle, Wash.—High pressure water jets are cutting down Denny hill, a Seattle hump, comprising 43 square city blocks. The work of making a level business district of a rugged landmark was begun in 1908 and will be finished within a few months.

Aside from the inconveniences of steep streets, Seattle needed Denny hill for a building site. Later the board of public works took a hand and now the days of the hill are almost past. In the regrading the conventional methods of earth removal by dirt wagons, steam shovels and construction trains have been replaced by salt water pumped up from the harbor. Powerful engines force the water through nozzles of three-inch diameter.

The stream is directed against the hard blue-clay hills that crumble like snow on a sunny day. The mixture of mud and gravel is then pumped through flumes out into the harbor.

The smoothing of the hill involved the destruction of the picturesque Denny hotel. Originally, the houses in the vicinity of the hotel were arranged on terraces or steps. So sharp was the ascent to the hotel that the management built and operated a private cable car line for the convenience of the guests.

When the experiment of private persons had proved that it was possible to cut down Seattle hills by hydraulic sluicing—there were doubters—the legal machinery was set in motion to make similar public improvements. A petition signed by the majority of the property holders in the district was approved by the mayor, the city engineer and the board of public works. The contract was let to a company which was required to install a pumping plant, capable of removing 12,000 cubic yards of earth daily. It was required to give bond that the work would be finished within 30 months after it was started.

Thirty-four million cubic yards of earth will have been washed away when the work is finished. The cost will be $2,500,000.

FRENCH LAW HITS MODISTES

Refusal to Deliver Dresses on Credit Results in Maker Being Fined in Court.

London.—A question which is of considerable interest to the fair sex, as it concerns the obligations of dressmakers to their customers, has just been settled by a Paris court. Last summer a lady, wishing to give a trial order to an unassuming couturiere, established at some distance from the business quarter of the city, ordered a costume which was duly sent to her house and found to be so satisfactory that a few months afterward she ordered a couple of dresses, which, however, the tradeswoman declined to forward to her dwelling, saying that she could go to the shop, pay the bill, and take them away with her.

This the customer refused to do, arguing that the dresses should be sent to her, and that she ought to be allowed due leisure for the inspection of the account. But the dressmaker held firm, so the lady, whose husband is a distinguished member of the Paris bar, determined to refer the matter to the law court.

The judge decided against the modiste. So for failure to deliver the goods on trial she had to pay 20 francs by way of damages, and has also to deliver the two dresses within the space of three days, and in good condition, failing which she was ordered to put down two francs for every day's delay.

A woman wants a divorce because her husband made her walk to meals. Those delightful balloons now advertised here are not coming any too soon.—N. Y. Herald.

Anglo-Saxon Bread.

The food of the Anglo-Saxons was largely bread. This is shown by the fact that a domestic was called a "loaf eater," and the mistress of the house was called a "loaf giver." The bread was baked in round, flat cakes, which the superstition of the cook marked with a cross to preserve them from the perils of the fire.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THE MAN I love doesn't love me. Tell me some way to make him," is the substance of the world-old appeal that occasionally appears in my mail in one form or another.

Dear folks, if I could give any recipe for the solution of that trouble, don't you know that I'd be rich beyond the dreams of avarice or Midas or John D?

All I can offer you is just a few suggestions. Take them for what they are worth. I really think that's a little something.

There is an old idea that if you want to win a man's love, it helps for you to be indifferent towards him. I think that is a great mistake. Indifference seldom serves as a spur except when your steel is already galloping. If I wanted to make a man love me, I should show him in a frank, open way—not badly, or in forward fashion, but just as I would a girl—that I liked and admired him. That, if it didn't do anything else, at least would convince him that I had surprisingly good taste.

Secondly, I should ask his advice. A man naturally feels superior when he is giving advice, hence pleased with himself, hence pleased with you. Ask it often, steer him around to telling you what you intend to do anyway, and then make sure that he knows you are following his words of wisdom.

Then I would take an interest in his health. Never mind how little need there seems to be. The blazer and brawler the man, the more fuss he likes to have made over him, because he has been used to fuss.

And then I would surprise him by the intelligent interest I took in his fads. Not—mind you—by what I knew about them, but by what I wanted to know. I know a girl who fell in love with a man who had a mind for botany.
She knew nothing about botany and hated sciences of all kinds, but she got a book and read up on it. "I suppose he was surprised to find out how much you know about botany," I said when she told me about it. "Oh no," she answered, "I didn't act as if I knew anything about it—only as if I wanted to know. I did that reading not so that I could appear well informed, but so that I could ask intelligent questions and listen well. I knew that was all he'd want."

When I had brought him to the letter writing stage, I would make it a point, no matter how much I wanted to, not to answer his letters too quickly.
Nothing gives value to a letter like having to wait longer than you expected for it. Even the letter you are comparatively indifferent to requires an indicated delay from delay—and the letter you are really anxious for—well, your eagerness for that gets fairly burned into your brain.

And, lastly, I'd go after him with all the arts that convention allowed me.
Of course, I don't mean I would openly pursue him. That would probably be an unsuccessful as it was unbecomingly—although I have seen the woman who hunts her quarry in the open field succeed.

What I mean is, that if I loved a man and were afraid he wasn't going to love me, I wouldn't sit still and simply wish he might.

I would deliberately set to work to study his tastes and his habits, his fads and his ideals, his sense of humor, his admirations and his dislikes, and in so far as I could do it in a womanly way I would mold myself to their measure.

Impossible?
To anything else but love—Yes.

A NEW VERSION OF AN OLD STORY.

By MARY RUSSELL.

George Washington and his cherry tree seems to place a halo over every cherry tree. Perhaps it is this crime endearing tradition which makes the cherry tree a constant menace to the morals of small boys.

A cherry tree
in a city or village is a rock of stumbling to wayward feet. Perhaps the small timers console themselves, as they strip the branches and break down the tree, that after all they are better than George Washington since they at least leave the tree.

One young girl who has a tree full of rich, red fruit keeps the hose constantly on the faucet and shoots all the small marauders who hunt the tempting tree. She claims that she cools their blood and dampens their ardor for fruit, and perhaps she is right. At least the small boys dread her uncompromising attitude and scamper wildly and shakingly as she approaches.

As other fruits appear the small urchin unobtrusively takes his toll.

Have you ever listened to men tell with chuckles of unholly joy, how they sprung melon patches and fruit trees in the halcyon days of youth?
They rather thought the boy who declined to take part in their marauding trips a mollycoddle, afraid of taking the risks.

And usually these are honest men and good ones, too. They would not have a boy steal or lie, or do any of the things forbidden by upright and honorable manhood. It is only that they have a peculiar code of honor.

It is dishonest to lie—it is not dishonest to sneak into a man's garden and strip his vines or fruit trees.
It is dishonest to take a man's bicycle—it is not dishonest to take his melons.

Even a handkerchief would not be taken from a clothes line by the boy who would take all the ripe fruit he could carry, and at the same time break branches and ruin trees.

Is not that a queer idea of morality?
And why do men wink at it and remembering their own days, chuckle enjoyfully at the story of dare devil adventure?

The youthful thief—for that is what he is—will think he has done a deed of daring and plume himself accordingly.

Now, I am not saying that all fruit and melon thieves turn out badly—far from it! The real human crop-ture is rather apt to surmount all the hills of difficulty we place in his path, and come out a decent, law-abiding citizen, but I do think that we should teach boys, as well as girls, that honesty is honesty, and there is no compromise with the good old fashioned word.

I believe the man who steals railroads and the man who steals bread are both thieves. If I leaped on the side of mercy it would be for the man who has not been taught the true meaning of honesty, and who follows his primal instincts. But when you see fathers, and sometimes mothers, laughing at stories of artful thieves in thievery—because the article stolen is something to eat—then you do not feel surprised at tales of graft and greed.

Men in high places—as boys who have had Christian training—forget and ignore the old law:
"Thou shalt not steal."

Many of the favorite dishes of today the time of Chaucer, and the boys have enjoyed their gingerbread and the girls have lunched on pickles for 500 years, or ever since King Edward

The great new science of Chiropactic (chi-ro-pac-tic) has shown the way that in order to be made well and to remain well, it is necessary to remove the cause of the ailment and that treating symptoms with medicine is out as practical as the Chiropactic adjustments. Every nerve in the entire body which control every function and organ of the human system and every nerve (100,000,000 in all) pass through the spine. When certain nerves do not perform their functions you become sick. The way to remove the cause of the ailment is to get at the nerves that are not working. This is done by Chiropactic adjustments of the spine. Almost every ailment is curable by the Chiropactic science. Call for free consultation and advice.

SALOON MEN HAVE CONFERENCE WITH MAYOR THURSDAY

Many Respond to Police Notes Asking for Their Presence on the Official Carpet.

His Honor Mayor Clark held a reception yesterday afternoon at the City Hall which was largely attended by the business men of the city who are seeking to renew their liquor licenses or secure new permits to allow them to do business in the city.

Dame Rumor has it that all the conference was not as harmonious as some of the invited guests would have desired but it is certain that Mayor Clark was prepared for all his invited and gave each of them a few minutes of personal attention and his conversation, while in some cases not pleasing, was decidedly to the point.

As a result of the gathering it is possible that some of the liquor licenses will not be signed by the mayor even if they are passed by the council. His Honor had data as to happenings in certain saloons as to pictures that hung on the walls and objectionable features, such as selling to intoxicated persons, minors, being open after hours and also selling on Sundays.

Some of the charges made were admitted, some were denied, and one gentleman who was questioned became quite indignant that he could not do as he wished. However, the majority of those who were interviewed admitted that they were not in the information that the mayor quoted so aptly. Evidence that could not be gained.

The mayor informed some that he would sign their licenses if passed by the council, and to others he simply smiled the interview with the remark, "That is all." Some promised to take down objectionable pictures, many of them advertisements of billiard and mineral waters, in which nude figures appeared. Taking it all in all it furnished much conversation for persons about town last evening and much interest is shown in the possible results.

Not all of the sixty-seven applicants for licenses received the invitation to meet with the mayor, many liquor men having complied with the ordinance and state law so closely during the past that there is no complaint or question about their fitness to conduct their business. It is a safe proposition that some who appeared yesterday will have hard work to get another license.

The mayor had no statement to make relative to the source of his information or the probable results of the meeting, stating that he had been having a conference with the applicants for licenses against whom some complaint had been made. Just what action the council will take on his report remains to be seen.

A MOUNTAIN CLIMBER Gains 12 Pounds on Change of Food.

When a change of food can rebuild a man 77 years of age, it is evidence that there is some value in a knowledge that can disintegrate in the selection of proper food to rebuild the body. A physician attending a California 72 years old told him that death from old age would soon claim him, he suffered from general weakness and debility.

An old lady advised him to quit coffee and drink Postum and to eat Grape-Nuts food every morning. He took the advice, and has gained 12 pounds. Says he is as well as he ever was, and can take long trips in the mountains, which he had been unable to do for a long time.

There is a reason for this: In the first place, coffee acts as a direct nerve destroyer on many highly organized people, both young and old, and many people haven't the knowledge to select nourishing, healthful, rebuilding food.

Both Postum and Grape-Nuts are made from selected parts of the field grains that contain delicate particles of phosphate of potash and albumen. These two elements combine in the human body to quickly rebuild the gray matter in the brain and in the nerve centers throughout the body.

Direct, sure, and certain results come from their use and can be proven by any person who cares to make the trial.

RURAL SCHOOLS' GRADUATION WAS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Interesting Program Given at the High School Building—List of Graduates.

Sixty-nine graduates of the Rock county rural schools received their diplomas at the High School on Wednesday of this week and thirty more will have completed the required amount of work so that they can receive certificates and enter the high school next fall. It was a most interesting program throughout and despite the warm weather, was attended by about three hundred persons gathered from all parts of the county.

With Miss Amanda Mason presiding at the piano, the graduates marched into the big room and took their seats. Miss Tade Nott then rendered a piano solo followed by Miss Marjorie Wallace with a vocal selection. Superintendent O. D. Antkowiak then gave an address of welcome and Miss Edith Bowman and Will C. Hyde gave a vocal duet. The address of the afternoon was given by Prof. R. A. Moore of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture which was most interesting.

Mr. Moore traced briefly the growth of agricultural education in Wisconsin, and showed how and why this state was leading in many lines of agriculture. He showed how many young men were making a success of their farm work, study, organization and wisely directed farm work.

The improvement of grain and corn by selection and breeding were brought out, and samples were shown. Such an address is an inspiration to all who heard it.

Following Prof. Moore's address came an old fashioned spelling contest in which some fifty pupils took part. It was exciting and interesting and the first honors fell to Miss Arlene Smith of the town of Avon with Miss Helen Throne of the town of Deloit a close second. Miss Tade Nott gave a second solo and the diplomas were presented by Supt. O. D. Antkowiak. Only four of the graded schools did not have a representation in the class and this was owing to local conditions. It is also the first time that the graduates have written on questions furnished from the office of the state superintendent of public instruction. Starting July 1 there will be a two weeks' institutes for teachers at the high school building and later in the summer a meeting for the members of the school boards. The following is the list of graduates receiving diplomas:

Clara Auer, Clinton; Emma Anderson, Clinton; Glenn Arnold, Newark; Roy L. Arnold, Rock; Grace Ashby, Spring Valley; Mable Austin, Harmony; Charles Bates, Porter; Mabel Bennett, Lima; Maud Benson, Clinton; Emma Borg, Fulton; Nellie Boz, Fulton; Florence Bradford, La Prairie; Calvert Broughton, Milledgeville; Mina Bunnagard, Rock; Frank Burrows, Harmony; Mabelle Busch, Rock; Alice Carroll, Avon; May M. About 30 others have just a little more to finish in August, which will allow them to graduate in time for the fall term of high school.

RAISING FUNDS TO SECURE BALL TEAM

Monroe Baseball Enthusiasts Working Up Proposals to Hire Crack Baseball Players.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., June 21.—If present plans of Monroe baseball enthusiasts materialize, the city will have a crack ball team this season. The promoters of the game already can place their hands on $100 without soliciting, and a plan is on foot to form a $1,000 stock company to finance the undertaking. If citizens for stock pans out, a meeting will be held this evening to organize the company. It is thought that good players can be secured without difficulty, as a number of semi-professional teams have broken up in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin. As soon as the company is formed and the proper amount raised, a team will be formed that it is expected will clean everything up around this territory. Games to be played in Monroe will be booked as many as can be, and it is planned to bring either the Chicago Cubs or White Sox here on the big feature of the season.

New Bank Vault.
A new vault weighing 9000 pounds has been installed in the First National bank, for safety box equipment. The base is of cement nine feet deep and the vault walls are of concrete twenty-two inches thick. It will be steel lined with a triple lock door. The present vault capacity is more than doubled, meaning the addition of an upper and lower vault.

RAISING FUNDS TO SECURE BALL TEAM

Monroe Baseball Enthusiasts Working Up Proposals to Hire Crack Baseball Players.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., June 21.—If present plans of Monroe baseball enthusiasts materialize, the city will have a crack ball team this season. The promoters of the game already can place their hands on $100 without soliciting, and a plan is on foot to form a $1,000 stock company to finance the undertaking. If citizens for stock pans out, a meeting will be held this evening to organize the company. It is thought that good players can be secured without difficulty, as a number of semi-professional teams have broken up in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin. As soon as the company is formed and the proper amount raised, a team will be formed that it is expected will clean everything up around this territory. Games to be played in Monroe will be booked as many as can be, and it is planned to bring either the Chicago Cubs or White Sox here on the big feature of the season.

New Bank Vault.
A new vault weighing 9000 pounds has been installed in the First National bank, for safety box equipment. The base is of cement nine feet deep and the vault walls are of concrete twenty-two inches thick. It will be steel lined with a triple lock door. The present vault capacity is more than doubled, meaning the addition of an upper and lower vault.

Arrangements have been made for an old fashioned patriotic celebration on July 4th at Oakley. Ray, Foster, of Milledgeville, has been secured to deliver the address. Races and a good ball game with a bowery dance all day and night will furnish the main amusements.

The "dolly" girls, eleven in number, held their annual picnic at Deuster Park yesterday. They took the 2:07 train from here and were conveyed from Brookfield to the picnic in a launch. Mrs. P. J. Verch chaperoned the party.

High Lichtenwalter and Henry E. Wells have gone to Chicago and expect to return with the former's new White Steamer.

Miss Martha Monroe and Miss Kathryn Monroe have gone to Chicago to spend the summer.

A BOY'S HOLIDAYS
The ardent controversy which has been waging in England and America concerning the best way to dispose of school boys in the long summer vacation has prompted the Grand Trunk Railway System to issue a special publication giving suggestions and practical hints to parents as to what to do with the school boy during the months of July and August. This vacation camp is one of the solutions and the publication entitled, "What Shall a Boy Do With His Vacation?" thoroughly covers the ground. A copy may be obtained for the asking by applying to Mr. H. G. Elliot, 917 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg., Chicago.

CLASS OF 1910 AT A FAREWELL BALL
One Hundred Couples Enjoyed Festivities at Assembly Hall Last Evening.

One hundred couples, including several out of town visitors, attended the dancing party given by the Janesville high school class of 1910 at Assembly hall last evening. The ballroom was hung with festoons of the class colors, purple and white, and numerous college pennants, and Thompson's Madison orchestra rendered a program of inspiring dance numbers which banished all considerations of the sultriness of the evening. Festivities were in progress until a late hour.

Buy the Bread They Like Best

The folks at your table are the ones to judge what bread should be set before them. Give them a chance to vote. If you are still serving home-baked bread alternate once with Yankee Bread.

The home-baked bread will be heavy and soggy, because of dry heat. Yankee bread will be light, moist and sweet. The home-baked bread will ferment and form gas, because it hasn't had half heat enough. Yankee bread will digest easily because each loaf has been baked in live steam at a temperature of 340 degrees.

Let your people choose and be glad of their choice. Try a loaf of this delightful, nut-like tasting bread. So a loaf. Fresh every morning at your grocer.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 24, 1870.—Jottings.—The new Opera House in this city is to be opened on the 18th of July under the auspices of the Young Men's Association. A dramatic company from the Museum of Chicago has been engaged for the occasion. It will be a first-class entertainment. "The play of Dora" will be brought out.

Such a jubilee has the doves become, the churches and various public buildings of this city, that it has been found necessary to shoot them. And consequently for the past few mornings sportsmen have been doing execution among these birds. A couple of men whose morning was disturbed by the shooting of doves at the Myers House this morning, complained of those who did the shooting for a violation of the city ordinance relating thereto.

The Good Templars of this city went to Fulton today in open wagons to join in a picnic with the Good Templars of that town.

In many localities in this city the thermometer indicated a temperature of 100 in the shade today. If there is any vacant situation in an ice house anywhere we mean to apply for it.

COFFEE RISKS.

All coffee dangers can be easily and quickly avoided. You can positively get the flavor, the golden amber color, and the real coffee action—without the alarming poisonous effects—by simply asking your grocer for the new substitute known as Dr. Health Coffee. (Remember also these facts: You get 100 cups of rich, pure "Health Coffee" from a single 15 pound 25c package of Dr. Health's Health Coffee. It absolutely gives two cups for the price of one, and contains less than 10¢ per pound.)

As an illustration of real coffee, "Health Coffee" is instantly in evidence. There is no other coffee substitute made that has the real true flavor and aroma of coffee, and yet has not a single grain of real coffee in it.

And remember this: That Health Coffee is "made in a minute," 30 to 60 minutes (depending on the quality of the water) and is boiling in as little as 10 minutes. The health-giving properties come from the wholesome grains of Oats, Malt, Nuts, etc. from which Health Coffee is made. Health Coffee is also an ideal food for children. Write Dr. Health, Madison, Wis. for free book, "Coffee Dangers."

IN THE ANATOMY OF ADVERTISING

Three Bones Are Notably Conspicuous--

The Wishbone, the Backbone and Alas! the Sparerib

The WISHBONE'S function is to create a desire for better advertising—for more business, for a larger field.

The BACKBONE supplies the nerve required to realize the ambitions of the Wishbone.

The SPARERIB suggests to the short-sighted advertiser that anything he can pare off his advertising appropriation is really and truly economy.

Some men have a strong sparerib and a weak backbone.

Instances are rife, right here in Janesville, where the very smallness of the advertising outlay is the weakest feature of the advertising campaign.

Men who expect $5.00 per month worth of advertising to get results that they would be willing to pay $50 for are the first to complain that business is dull or that advertising doesn't pay.

Real advertisers who know advertising—advertisers with backbone enough to give advertising a decent trial, spend 1 1/2% to 5% of their gross receipts for the year.

Less than six retail firms in Janesville have an outlay of 2% for advertising.

Advertising is of Two Kinds-- Creative and Competitive

CREATIVE ADVERTISING goes out into the city, the rural routes, the suburbs, the country towns and the crossroads, and makes friends for the advertisers. It acquaints people with the store, with the merchandise. It educates people to buy better goods. It tells of the store's policies and it MAKES business for the store.

COMPETITIVE ADVERTISING meets the competition of rival stores, of mail order houses and of out of town stores.

Most really successful advertisers must undergo an operation on the "SPARERIB."

Every advertising success has a man behind it with a backbone strong enough to make an appropriation large enough to make it a success.

In most any retail business in Janesville a 2% outlay for advertising will bring an increase to the advertiser in one or two years that would be simply astounding.

Cases are known in Janesville and in many other cities in every State in the Union where seemingly impossible "Gains" have been made on no larger appropriation.

Are YOU interested enough in increasing your business to give it a decent advertising campaign?

Most merchants THINK they are—but they "aren't."

Yet these same merchants make the remark, "Oh! we must advertise a little all the time."

If a little is a good thing—
